Message from the Principal Clerk of Committees

It is my pleasure to present the 2009-2010 Annual Report of the Senate Committees Directorate, describing the activities and expenditures of the directorate and the many committees to which it provides administrative, procedural and other support.

The Second Session of the 40th Parliament began on January 26, 2009, and committees soon became active. Activity levels remained high until prorogation which ended the session on December 30, 2009. The Third Session of the 40th Parliament began on March 3, 2010 with the Speech from the Throne held in the Senate Chamber. The next day, the Selection Committee reported its recommendations for committee membership, and committee organization meetings were held shortly thereafter.

Despite the prorogation period, all activity indicators surpassed the five-year average, including the number of meetings, reports, hours in committee, witnesses, bills considered, special studies undertaken, fact-finding hours and trips. It was a very productive year. In addition, the Committees Directorate took advantage of the non-sitting periods to produce or update a wide variety of documents and working tools. These include the production of a Guide for Chairs and Deputy Chairs which is available on the Intrasen. Other documents, such as Fundamentals of Senate Committees, were also updated.

The Committees Directorate is proud to provide professional, non-partisan support to Senate committees to help them attain their objectives. We greatly appreciate the feedback we receive from committee chairs and deputy chairs which helps us to assess and improve our services. In addition, the directorate is pleased with the very positive feedback it receives through surveys given to witnesses following their appearance. The responses indicate a very high level of satisfaction, with 99% of witnesses rating the overall services of the Committees Directorate as 4 or 5 on a 5-point scale. These numbers, combined with responses indicating that 99% of witnesses considered their appearance to be useful, demonstrate that the directorate is providing high-quality support to a process that Canadians value.

Committee Activities

Committees account for much of the activity of the Senate. On average, over 50 bills are examined and 50 special studies are undertaken each year. Each committee is unique in subject matter and purpose. Some committees rarely examine legislation, while others focus almost entirely on bills. There are currently nineteen standing committees of the Senate. The size of committees, their general areas of study and the number of members required for quorum are set under Rule 86(1) of the Rules of the Senate. In 2009-2010, the Special Senate Committee on Aging was also active.

* All data contained in this report was extracted from the Journals of the Senate, the Proceedings of Senate Committees and the records of the Senate Finance Directorate.

Consulting Canadians and Others

Every year, a number of trips are undertaken to gather testimony at the local and regional levels. Committees hold formal public hearings in locations throughout Canada, and undertake more informal "fact-finding" trips both within Canada and abroad. Committee travel provides senators with the opportunity to better familiarize themselves with the issues they are studying and to obtain evidence and information that cannot be obtained in Ottawa.

When committees travel outside Canada to inquire into matters, the meetings are called fact-finding missions, which means they are not considered official proceedings and no transcripts are published. The information gathered, however, is still valid to the committee's inquiry and can be used in a report of the committee.

The Standing Committee on Aboriginal Peoples, for its study on matters generally relating to the Aboriginal Peoples of Canada - Issues pertaining to Indian Act elections, held public hearings in Winnipeg and Dauphin, Manitoba on May 24 to 27, 2009; and in Kelowna, Williams Lake and Vancouver, British Columbia on September 29 to October 2, 2009. The committee also had a fact-finding mission in Vancouver, British Columbia on October 1st 2009.

The Standing Committee on Agriculture and Forestry, for its study on the current state and future of Canada's forest sector, conducted fact-finding missions in Saint-Leonard, New-Brunswick from November 1 to 3, 2009 and in Quebec City on November 24, 2009.

The Standing Committee on Energy, the Environment and Natural Resources, for its study on emerging issues related to its mandate, conducted a fact-finding mission in Washington, D.C. from September 29, to October 2, 2009.

The Standing Committee on Fisheries and Oceans, for its study on issues relating to the federal government's current and evolving policy framework for managing Canada's fisheries and oceans, conducted a fact-finding mission in Winnipeg, Manitoba; Rankin Inlet and Cambridge Bay, Nunavut; Hay River and Inuvik, Northwest Territories; Sitka and Juneau, Alaska and Victoria, British Columbia from September 17 to 27, 2009. The committee also held public hearings in Yellowknife and Inuvik, Northwest Territories from September 21 and 23, 2009.

The Standing Committee on Foreign and International Trade, for its study on the rise of China, India and Russia in the global economy and the implications for Canadian policy, conducted a fact-finding mission in Khanty-Mansiysk and Moscow, Russia from October 11 to 16, 2009; and in Beijing, Guangzhou, Shanghai, Hong Kong and Shenzhen, China from November 8 to 14, 2009.

The Standing Committee on Legal and Constitutional Affairs, for its study on the DNA Identification Act, conducted a fact-finding mission at the Ottawa-DNA Data Bank on April 23, 2009.

The Standing Committee on National Security and Defence, for its study on Canada's national security policy, conducted fact-finding missions to the Canadian Forces Base (CFB) Halifax and CFB Greenwood in Nova Scotia; Charlottetown, Prince-Edward-Island; and to CFB Gagetown in New Brunswick from July 6 to 9, 2009; in Toronto, Windsor and Niagara Falls, Ontario from July 14 to 17, 2009; in Halifax, Nova Scotia and Saint John and Saint Stephen, New Brunswick from July 22 to 24, 2009; in Calgary, Raymond, Coutts and Milk River, Alberta from September 8 to 11, 2009; in Vancouver, British Columbia from September 30 to October 2, 2009; and to CFB Petawawa, Kingston, CFB Trenton and CFB Borden, in Ontario from November 17 to 19, 2009.

The Subcommittee on Cities of the Committee on Social Affairs, Science and Technology, for its study on current social issues pertaining to Canada's largest cities, conducted a fact-finding mission in Toronto, Ontario on May 15, 2009; in Calgary and Edmonton, Alberta from May 19 to 20, 2009; in Montréal, Quebec on June 8, 2009; and in Regina, Saskatchewan, Winnipeg, Manitoba and in Vancouver, British Columbia from July 13 to 15, 2009.

The Standing Committee on Transport and Communications, for its study on the wireless sector, conducted a fact-finding mission in Paris, France and London, England from May 18 to 22, 2009; and in Tallinn, Estonia and in Brussels, Belgium from November 8 to 13, 2009.

Parliamentary Internet

The Committees Directorate regularly reassesses its presence on the Parliamentary Internet site (www.parl.gc.ca) to ensure that it provides useful information and is user-friendly. We value the relevance of this medium to enhance the visibility of Senate committees.

All committee reports, press releases, and appropriate directorate documents are converted into HTML and/or PDF format and posted on the Internet. Information on the Internet about Senate committees, including the date, time and place of meetings, expected witnesses, radio frequencies and whether the meeting will be webcast and/or video-recorded for broadcasting on CPAC are updated on a regular basis. Key directorate documents such as the Annual Report, Fundamentals of Senate Committees and Guide to Participating in a Senate Committee Study are also available online.

Highlights of Special Study Reports

Standing Committee on Aboriginal Peoples

New Voter Identification Procedures and Related Impacts on Aboriginal Peoples and Communities in Canada

(Fifth Report (interim) tabled in the Senate on May 7, 2009;
Sessional Paper No. 2/40-359S)

On June 22, 2007, Parliament enacted legislation introducing new voter identification requirements for electors who are now required, inter alia, to prove both their identity and residence when voting in federal elections. In February 2009, the Chief Electoral Officer of Canada, Marc Mayrand, reported that certain groups were disproportionately affected by the new requirements, citing evidence that Aboriginal electors face particular challenges. In April 2009, the Standing Senate Committee on Aboriginal Peoples agreed to examine the impacts of the legislation on Aboriginal electors; the committee expressed concern that the introduction of new voting requirements may have adversely, albeit unintentionally, affected the ability of First Nations, Inuit and Métis electors to exercise their fundamental right to vote.

The committee's report emphasizes the importance of establishing measures which would reduce the barriers experienced by First Nations, Inuit and Métis electors during the last general election as a result of the introduction of the new voter requirements. In particular, the report recommends that the federally issued Certificate of Indian Status, in combination with the voter information card received by all registered electors, be sufficient to meet the requirements of proof of voter eligibility for First Nations individuals. It also recommends that Elections Canada be provided with sufficient flexibility in the application of the law to better meet the unique circumstances of northern and rural communities, thereby reducing any unintended burden on the exercise of the right to vote.

Special Senate Committee on Aging

Canada's Aging Population: Seizing the Opportunity

(Third Report (final) tabled in the Senate on April 21, 2009
Sessional Paper No. 2/40-316S)

This report summarizes the evidence received by the committee regarding Canada's Aging Population. The report contains 32 recommendations which set out a comprehensive vision for government, organizations and individuals to embrace the challenges of an aging population. These include:

- move immediately to take steps to promote active aging and healthy aging and to combat ageism;
- provide leadership and coordination through initiatives such as a National Integrated Care Initiative, a National Caregiver Strategy, a National Pharmacare Program, and a federal transfer to address the needs of provinces with the highest proportion of the aging population;
- ensure the financial security of Canadians by addressing the needs of older workers, pension reform and income security reform;
- facilitate the desire of Canadians to age in their place of choice with adequate housing, transportation, and integrated health and social care services; and
- act immediately to implement changes for those populations groups for which it has a specific direct service responsibility, and in relation to Canada's official language commitments.

Standing Committee on Agriculture and Forestry

Beyond Freefall: Halting Rural Poverty

(Fourth Report (final) tabled in the Senate on June 4, 2009;
Sessional Paper No. 2/40-435S)

This report was tabled by the Committee in a previous session. It was re-tabled for procedural reasons: the committee requesting a government response.

The report reflects the views provided to the committee from expert witnesses and rural Canadians in every province and territory. The report makes 68 recommendations aimed at reducing rural poverty and rural decline in Canada and increasing the federal government policy commitment in rural issues.

The Canadian Forest Sector: Past, Present, Future

(Eighth Report (interim) tabled in the Senate on December 10, 2009;
Sessional Paper No. 2/40-897S)

In the spring of 2009, the Standing Senate Committee on Agriculture and Forestry began a detailed study of the Canadian forest sector. The interim report is based on the committee's public hearings held in April, May and June of 2009.

Over the last years, the forest sector has experienced a substantial decline in production. This decline is mostly market-driven since it can be explained by the decreasing demand for products made of Canadian wood. The decline in demand is structural (e.g., sharp reduction in newsprint due to the growing popularity of electronic publication) as well as cyclical (e.g., collapse of the residential construction market in the United States). It can also be explained by the increasing competition from Asian countries, particularly in the further processed market segment such as furniture and kitchen cabinets. Other factors explaining the current problems experienced by the industry include the strong Canadian dollar, the high price of energy, difficulties accessing credit and the U.S. subsidies to its forest industry. The forest system crisis has significant economic, social and ecological side effects. When the demand for Canadian wood products plummeted, the most immediate effect was a large number of layoffs and plant closures. There are also social implications; about 300 communities in Canada heavily depend on the forestry industry. Finally, on the ecological side, when prices for the wood fibre are pressured downward by economic forces, it may result in a slowdown in sustainable forest management activities.

Although forest resources are under exclusive provincial jurisdiction, the federal government has played an increasingly important role in the forest sector over the years. The federal government's major areas of involvement in forestry includes research and development; sustainable development, ecosystem-based management and climate change; regional and community development; and finally, development of international markets and resolution of trade disputes.

Four recommendations are presented in the interim report. Three of them address the immediate problems facing the industry —access to credit, unfair import competition and the tax credit for research and development. One recommendation deals with the long-term goal of harmonizing the provincial building codes in Canada in order to facilitate and increase the use of wood in the non-residential sector. The proposals for the continuation of the committee's work, also included in the interim report, are designed to explore and evaluate possible new strategic long-term positioning for the industry.

Standing Committee on Banking, Trade and Commerce

Recent Competition Act Changes: A Work in Progress

(Second Report (final) tabled in the Senate on June 11, 2009;
Sessional Paper No. 2/40- 454S)

The legislation implementing certain provisions in the 2009 federal budget was studied by the Standing Senate Committee on National Finance, despite the inclusion in Part 12 of that bill of proposed amendments to the Competition Act, which would normally be studied by the Standing Senate Committee on Banking, Trade and Commerce (hereafter, the committee). At least in part for that reason, on March 12, 2009, the committee was authorized to examine and report on Part 12 of the budget implementation bill.

Consequently, in May 2009, after the budget implementation bill received Royal Assent, the committee studied the recently enacted changes to the Competition Act. These changes reflected, in part, recommendations in the 2008 final report of the Competition Policy Review Panel entitled Compete to Win and proposed changes in Bill C-19 (1st Session, 38th Parliament), which died on the Order Paper with the dissolution of Parliament in 2005.

Witnesses told the committee of their concern about the inclusion of proposed changes to the Competition Act in a budget implementation bill and the consequential absence of debate over important issues concerning competition law. That being said, while they generally agreed that the recently enacted changes were beneficial to competition, they spoke to the committee about such issues as dual-track conspiracy, two-stage pre-merger notification and administrative monetary penalties. The committee's June 2009 report summarized witness views about issues they believe require improvement; the committee did not make recommendations.

Transparency, Balance and Choice: Canada's Credit and Debit Card Systems

(Fourth Report (final) deposited with the Clerk of the Senate on June 30, 2009;
Sessional Paper No. 2/40-641S)

In accordance with an order of reference of March 3, 2009, the Standing Senate Committee on Banking, Trade and Commerce studied "the credit and debit card systems in Canada and their relative rates and fees, in particular for businesses and consumers."

The committee undertook its study within the context of growing use of credit and debit cards relative to cash for making retail purchases, increased competition in the credit and debit card markets, innovations in chip technology, changes in credit card terms and conditions as they apply to consumers, and regulatory and legal scrutiny of the pricing and terms governing credit and debit card use in a number of developed and developing countries, among other considerations.

The committee's report, which was tabled in June 2009, made five recommendations, including: the establishment of an oversight board that would, among other things, make recommendations on regulatory or legislative measures, monitor and publish information on certain fees, and establish – and ensure compliance with – a code of conduct for payment systems participants; federal action in respect of merchant charges and information disclosure; federal action regarding the calculation and setting of certain fees; requirements about information disclosure by card issuers; and legislative or regulatory measures regarding credit card terms and conditions as well as card issuer actions.

Standing Committee on Energy, the Environment and Natural Resources

With Respect, Canada's North

(Sixth Report (interim) tabled in the Senate on May 13, 2009;
Sessional Paper No. 2/40-370S)

The report entitled With Respect, Canada's North represented the work conducted during the 39th Parliament, 2nd Session by the Standing Senate Committee on Energy, the Environment and Natural Resources. At the time, Senator Tommy Banks was the Chair and Senator Pierre Claude Nolin was the Deputy Chair. The report summarized the fact-finding mission to the Western Arctic from June 1 - 6, 2008 by the Honourable Senators Banks, Brown, McCoy, Milne, Mitchell and Sibbeston and contained nine recommendations.

Globe Conference 2008

(Seventh Report (interim) tabled in the Senate on May 27, 2009;
Sessional Paper No. 2/40-396S)

The report entitled Globe Conference 2008 summarized the participation of the Honourable Senators Adams, Banks and Mitchell and, from the Library of Parliament, Frédéric Beaugard-Tellier and Sam Banks, at the GLOBE 2008 conference during the 39th Parliament, 2nd Session. The Globe Conference is a biennial international conference on the business of the environment. The 2008 program dealt with four main themes: climate and energy, finance and sustainability, corporate sustainability, and building better cities.

Report Addressing Bill C-10, Navigable Waters Protection Act

(Ninth Report (final) tabled in the Senate on June 11, 2009;
Sessional Paper No. 2/40-469S)

Bill C-10, the Budget Implementation Act, 2009, received Royal Assent on March 12, 2009. Part 7 of the Act amended Part I of the Navigable Waters Protection Act. That same day, the committee was authorized by the Senate to examine and report on those elements dealing with the Navigable Waters Protection Act (Part 7), contained in Bill C-10, the Budget Implementation Act, 2009. After extensive hearings involving over 30 witnesses, in addition to receiving 13 official submissions, the committee tabled their report entitled Report Addressing Bill C-10, Navigable Waters Protection Act which provided four recommendations to the federal government.

Standing Committee on Fisheries and Oceans

Rising to the Arctic Challenge: Report on the Canadian Coast Guard

(Second Report (interim) deposited with the Clerk of the Senate on May 4, 2009;
Sessional Paper No. 2/40-347S)

Rising to the Arctic Challenge highlighted the vital and considerable work performed by the Canadian Coast Guard and made fourteen recommendations. The report concluded that a stronger Coast Guard is needed to protect Canadian interests, and that more thought must be given to its future role in projecting Canada's sovereignty in the region. Among other things, the committee recommended the acquisition of new heavy ice-breakers capable of operating year-round in the Arctic Archipelago and on the extended continental shelf. The report called on the Coast Guard to recruit Inuit whenever possible, and also for the creation of an Arctic Strategy Advisory Committee, led by Indian and Northern Affairs Canada, to monitor and to advise in the development and implementation of an effective and integrated strategy for the North.

Nunavut Marine Fisheries: Quotas and Harbours

(Fourth Report (interim) tabled in the Senate on June 6, 2009;
Sessional Paper No. 2/40-436S)

The committee's report entitled Nunavut Marine Fisheries: Quotas and Harbours made eight recommendations. It called for the implementation of existing small harbour development plans to foster the expansion of small-boat, community-based fishing in Nunavut. The committee recommended that the Department of Fisheries and Oceans (DFO) continue its existing policy off the Southern part of Baffin Island, which prohibits access of 0B turbot to non-Nunavut interests until Nunavut has achieved a level of access to adjacent marine resources comparable to levels of access enjoyed by other coastal jurisdictions in their adjacent fisheries. Additionally, the committee proposed that the Minister of Fisheries and Oceans put in place a policy giving Nunavut stakeholders the right of first refusal to purchase, at a competitive rate, all fishery quotas in Nunavut's adjacent waters that are transferred or sold. The report recommended that DFO substantially increase funding for exploratory research in Nunavut's adjacent waters, by committing to a multi-year, multi-species research program. Furthermore, it recommended that DFO assess the impact of all vessel activity on whales and in concert with the Nunavut Wildlife Management Board, develop protective management measures, such as vessel exclusion zones at certain times of the year.

Crisis in the Lobster Fishery

(Fifth Report (interim) tabled in the Senate on June 9, 2009;
Sessional Paper No. 2/40-455S)

Recognizing the severe difficulties facing the Atlantic lobster fishery in spring 2009, the committee convened a panel to discuss the matter on May 26, 2009. The committee tabled a report in June 2009, which presented three recommendations to address immediate challenges and to ensure long-term viability of the fishing industry.

Proposed Changes to the Convention of the Northwest
Atlantic Fisheries Association (NAFO)

(Sixth Report (interim) tabled in the Senate on November 19, 2009;
Sessional Paper No. 2/40-862S)

The proposed changes to the NAFO Convention were also a subject the committee examined during this fiscal year. In a report tabled in November 2009, the committee asked the government to take more time to review the new treaty.

Controlling Canada's Arctic Waters: Role of the Canadian Coast Guard

(Seventh Report (interim) tabled in the Senate on December 10, 2009;
Sessional Paper No. 2/40-895S)

Recognizing the value of visiting Canada's regions, the committee held public hearings in Yellowknife and Inuvik and undertook fact-finding work in Manitoba, Nunavut, the Northwest Territories, Alaska and British Columbia in September 2009. In December 2009, the committee published a report entitled Controlling Canadian Arctic Waters: Role of the Canadian Coast Guard, which made nine recommendations. Among other things, the committee recommended that all foreign vessels entering Canadian Arctic waters be required to report to NORDREG – the Arctic Canada Traffic System – regardless of vessel size or tonnage. The committee believed that full control of northern waters requires strengthening the Canadian Coast Guard, including the provision of new, year-round, multi-purpose polar icebreakers. Armed Coast Guard vessels should also provide platforms for Arctic marine enforcement in conjunction with other agencies. The report called on the Coast Guard to look towards a year-round northern operation administered in the North to demonstrate that Canada is serious about protecting Canadian interests and those of northern residents, and for the creation of a Cabinet committee on Arctic affairs, chaired by the Prime Minister and including Ministers whose portfolios touch on the North, to further develop Arctic policy in cooperation with the three territorial governments.

Standing Committee on Foreign Affairs and International Trade

Study on the 2008 Legislative Review of Export Development Canada

(Ninth Report (final) tabled in the Senate on June 9, 2009;
Sessional Paper No. 2/40-453S)

In its report Study on the 2008 Legislative Review of Export Development Canada (EDC), the Standing Senate Committee on Foreign Affairs and International Trade made nine recommendations to the Government of Canada that it believes will improve EDC's operations and the future competitiveness of Canada's exporters. These include a recommendation that the EDC, if needed, continue to play a role in the short-term export credit insurance market. The committee also recommends that the Government of Canada, within a two-year period, report on the experiences of EDC in the domestic credit market and evaluate the continued need for its presence.

The study was part of the legislatively mandated ten-year review of the Export Development Act. The objective of the review is to assess how EDC is evolving, and should continue to evolve, to address the competitive demands of international trade on behalf of its stakeholders, and to make recommendations where appropriate.

The committee undertook the study under exceptional circumstances. The economic downturn was taking hold and, as part of its response, the Government of Canada introduced its 2009 Budget which announced a temporary expansion in EDC's mandate. Moreover, following the conclusion of the committee's consultations, in May 2009, the Minister of Finance increased EDC's long- and short-term borrowing limits in order to meet the increased demands for its services. As a result, developments directly affecting EDC were unfolding in real time during the course of the committee's consultations.

Standing Committee on Human Rights

Canada's Universal Periodic Review before the United Nations Human Rights Council

(Second Report (interim) tabled in the Senate on May 28, 2009;
Sessional Paper No. 2/40-402S)

On May 28, 2009, the Standing Senate Committee on Human Rights released its third report in relation to the United Nations Human Rights Council entitled Canada's Universal Periodic Review before the United Nations Human Rights Council. This brief report was written shortly after Canada underwent its first review of its human rights record under the Universal Periodic Review (UPR) mechanism before the Council. The committee concluded that the processes and procedures undertaken in preparation for Canada's UPR lacked clarity and transparency. It recommended that the Government of Canada prepare and publicly announce a plan for the next UPR that could establish broad and meaningful engagement with relevant stakeholders, parliamentarians and the Canadian public.

The Public Sector Equitable Compensation Act

(Third Report (final) tabled in the Senate on June 11, 2009;
Sessional Paper No. 2/40-467S)

The Standing Senate Committee on Human Rights studied and reported on the Public Sector Equitable Compensation Act (PSECA), which replaced the former pay equity complaints-based system for federal public employers found in the Canadian Human Rights Act. The new system under the PSECA requires that, among other measures, both public sector employers and bargaining agents take steps to ensure that employment wages are equitable and then report on their efforts. The committee recommended that the government create a mechanism to allow for consultation with relevant stakeholders in the development of the PSECA regulations; consult with stakeholders to investigate what can be offered in the way of legal assistance funding for individuals who are unable to approach their union for assistance with an equitable compensation complaint; and, ensure adequate funding and resources for the assessment and job classification systems created by the PSECA.

Standing Joint Committee on the Library of Parliament

Report on the Operations of the PBO within the Library of Parliament

(Third Report (final) tabled in the Senate on June 16, 2009)

In its report on the activities of the Parliamentary Budget Officer (PBO), the Standing Joint Committee on the Library of Parliament clarified the PBO's role and status within the Library of Parliament. The report had the unanimous support of all members of the committee, who represented all parties in the Senate and the House of Commons.

The purpose of the committee's study was to review issues involved in implementing the services of the Parliamentary Budget Officer, and to recommend lasting solutions designed to promote better understanding of his status, mandate and work he does in support of parliamentarians.

The committee had found in the course of its study that the Parliamentary Budget Officer did not have access to the funds required to carry out all aspects of his mandate appropriately. The committee considers important that the Parliamentary Librarian and the Parliamentary Budget Officer work together to solve this problem, following established procedures. The report proposes 10 recommendations aimed, among other things, at increasing funding for the Parliamentary Budget Officer, consistent with his following existing procedures at the Library of Parliament and respecting the confidentiality of the work of parliamentarians and committees; and permitting the publication of independent reports as long as they are presented first to parliamentarians.

Standing Committee on Official Languages

Francophone Arts and Culture: Living Life to its Fullest in Minority Settings

(Third Report (interim) tabled in the Senate on June 4, 2009;
Sessional Paper No. 2/40- 434S)

The committee released a report on Francophone arts and culture in June 2009 summarizing testimony from the public hearings held in Ottawa and New Brunswick. The committee made eight recommendations to ensure Francophone minority communities have access to resources that support the development of arts and culture and enhance their vitality.

Reflecting Canada's Linguistic Duality at the 2010 Olympic and Paralympic Winter Games: A Golden Opportunity – Follow-up Report

(Fourth Report (interim) tabled in the Senate on September 15, 2009;
Sessional Paper No. 2/40-642S)

With regard to the 2010 Games, the committee continued to hold public hearings to gain a full understanding of the concerns of principal stakeholders. In September 2009, it released a second follow-up report presenting sixteen recommendations. The committee highlighted the following points: inadequate resources were dedicated to translation and interpretation; employees and volunteers need to provide an active offer of service in the two official languages; and French-language services must be available to the travelling public. The committee recommended that an evaluation be conducted after the Games to determine the extent to which language requirements were met.

Standing Joint Committee on Scrutiny of Regulations

Australia – New Zealand Scrutiny of Legislation Conference, July 2009

(Fourth Report (final) tabled in the Senate on October 28, 2009;
Sessional Paper No. 2/40-815S)

In July 2009, representatives of the Standing Joint Committee attended the Australia-New Zealand Scrutiny of Regulations conference in Canberra, Australia. Since 1980, this biennial conference has been held for Australian and New Zealand parliamentary committees whose functions include the scrutiny of primary and delegated legislation. The theme of the 2009 conference was "Scrutiny and Accountability in the 21st Century".

The committee's joint chair, Mr. Andrew Kania, M.P., presented two papers. The first paper set out an overview of the history, mandate and procedures of Canada's Standing Joint Committee for the Scrutiny of Regulations. The second dealt with issues pertaining to the use of incorporation by reference in federal delegated legislation.

Australia and New Zealand both have very active and innovative scrutiny committees, and opportunities to interact with the members and staff of these committees are not frequent. Attending the Canberra conference offered a valuable opportunity to learn from the work of other scrutiny committees in Commonwealth jurisdictions, as well as to share the joint committee's own experience.

Standing Committee on Social Affairs, Science and Technology

Early Childhood Education: Next Steps

(Fifth Report (final) tabled in the Senate on April 28, 2009;
Sessional Paper No. 2/ 40-338S)

In April 2009, after hearing testimony from childcare providers and advocates from Canada, officials from Human Resources and Social Development Canada and international experts on human development, the committee tabled its final report entitled: Early Childhood Education and Care: Next Steps.

In this report, the committee examined the state of early learning and child care in Canada in view of the OECD report "Starting Strong II", released on September 21-22, 2006 which rated Canada last among 14 countries on spending on early learning and child care programs. Throughout the report, the committee outlined several ideas regarding the expansion and integration of more comprehensive services for parents and children, the re-evaluation of budgeting commitments to families and the need for incremental increases to assure the availability of quality child care spaces as well as all programs for parents and children focused on healthy childhood development and early learning.

A Healthy, Productive Canada: A Determinant of Health Approach

(Eighth Report (final) tabled in the Senate on June 3, 2009;
Sessional Paper No. 2/40-429S)

In June 2009, the committee tabled its final report entitled: A Healthy, Productive Canada: A Determinant of Health Approach. This report, which includes 22 recommendations, is the culmination of a two-year study by the committee's Subcommittee on Population Health.

Ultimately, the subcommittee found that Canada is seriously falling behind countries such as the United Kingdom and Sweden and stated that it is unacceptable for a wealthy country such as Canada to continue to tolerate such disparities in health. Furthermore the subcommittee stressed that disparities may widen even further with the current economic crisis, which is unprecedented in terms of its global reach and impact. The subcommittee concluded that a whole of government approach is required with intersectoral action embracing business, volunteers and community organizations.

In from the Margins: A Call to Action on Poverty, Housing and Homelessness

(Thirteenth Report (interim) tabled in the Senate on December 8, 2009;
Sessional Paper No. 2/40-888S)

The recommendations in the report, In From the Margins: A Call to Action on Poverty, Housing and Homelessness, are the summation of a two-year cross-country study by the committee's Subcommittee on Cities. Subcommittee members heard testimony from more than 170 witnesses, including people living in poverty, several of them homeless, as well as universities, think tanks, provincial and local governments and community organizations.

Based on the findings of this extensive study, the report's first and fundamental recommendation is that Canada and all provinces and territories adopt the goal of lifting people out of poverty. Included among the vast range of measures recommended by the committee to realize this core goal are the coordination of a nationwide federal-provincial initiative on early childhood education; the development of a national housing and homelessness strategy; and the creation of a basic income floor for all Canadians who are severely disabled.

Part II – Committee Profiles 2009-2010

Standing Committee on Aboriginal Peoples

A. General Information

In the fiscal year 2009-2010, the committee received four orders of reference, three for legislation, the other for a special study of a Government Response. The committee also carried on work from its global order of reference from the previous fiscal year; on February 25, 2009, the committee had received an order of reference to examine and report on the federal government's constitutional, treaty, political and legal responsibilities to First Nations, Inuit and Métis peoples, and on other matters generally relating to the Aboriginal Peoples of Canada.

Pursuant to this broad order of reference, the committee focused on a study of elections held pursuant to the provisions of the Indian Act. As of the end of March, 2010, the committee had held 17 meetings and heard 87 witnesses in the course of this study.

The committee also undertook a brief study on voter identification procedures with respect to Aboriginal peoples. During the course of this study two meetings were held and two witnesses were heard. The study resulted in the fifth report of the committee entitled New Voter Identification Procedures and Related Impacts on Aboriginal Peoples and Communities in Canada. It was tabled in the Senate on May 7, 2009.

With respect to the Government Response to the fifth report on the issue of new voter identification procedures, the committee did not have an opportunity to study this response in the 2009-2010 fiscal year.

On the legislative front, Bill C-5, An Act to amend the Indian Oil and Gas Act, was reported without amendment on May 5, 2009, having been referred to the committee on April 23, 2009. On June 4, 2009, the committee received an order of reference to examine Bill C-28, An Act to amend the Cree-Naskapi (of Quebec) Act. It reported this bill without amendment on June 9, 2009. On June 17, 2009, Bill C-41, An Act to give effect to the Maanulth First Nations Final Agreement and to make consequential amendments to other Acts, was referred to the committee. It was reported without amendment on June 18, 2009.

Standing Committee on Agriculture and Forestry

A. General Information

During the 2009-2010 fiscal year, the Standing Senate Committee on Agriculture and Forestry was given a new mandate to examine and report on the current state and future of the forestry sector in Canada. Pursuant to this order of reference, the committee tabled an interim report in December 2009 entitled The Canadian Forest Sector: Past, Present, Future. The report makes a diagnosis of problems in the forest industry. Specifically, it describes the causes and origins of the crisis that the industry is going through. The role and responsibilities of the federal government with respect to the forestry sector are also evaluated. The interim report makes four recommendations and proposes themes for further study.

The committee also requested a government response to a previous report of the committee entitled Beyond Freefall: Halting Rural Poverty. For procedural reasons, the report was re-tabled in the Senate and the government response was received and tabled in the Senate on November 17, 2009.

Standing Committee of Conflict of Interest for Senators

A. General Information

The Committee on Conflict of Interest for Senators was created under the Rules of the Senate to be responsible for all matters relating to the Conflict of Interest Code for Senators adopted in 2005, and to exercise general direction over the Senate Ethics Officer. The committee's responsibilities are detailed in the Code.

The membership of the committee is determined by a process that differs from that of all other committees. In accordance with the provisions of the Code, two members are elected by secret ballot in the respective caucuses of the Government and Opposition parties. A fifth member is then chosen by these four members. The chair of the committee must be chosen by at least four members of the committee.

Standing Committee on Energy, the Environment and Natural Resources

A. General Information

The committee deals with matters relating to energy, the environment and natural resources generally, including: mining and natural resources, other than fisheries and forestry; pipelines, transmission lines and energy transportation; environmental affairs; and other energy-related matters.

Bill C-10, An Act to implement certain provisions of the budget tabled in Parliament on January 27, 2009 and related fiscal measures (the "Budget Implementation Act, 2009") received Royal Assent on March 12, 2009. It proposed numerous initiatives to implement "Canada's Economic Action Plan." Among those were amendments to the Navigable Waters Protection Act. In the spring of 2009 the committee was mandated by the Senate to examine and report on those elements dealing with the Navigable Waters Protection Act. The committee conducted a detailed review, hearing 34 witnesses over 9 meetings and receiving 13 official submissions and correspondence from members of the public and special interest groups. In June the committee tabled its report, which included four recommendations to the federal government.

On June 4, 2009, the Senate authorized the committee to examine and report on the current state and future of Canada's energy sector (including alternative energy). The committee travelled to Washington, D.C. in the fall of 2009 on a fact-finding mission to meet with groups and individuals to discuss a range of issues within their mandate. Upon their return, the committee began the first phase of their two year study by inviting energy experts to discuss a number of key topics, including:

- Future energy supply and demand
- Canada's role as an energy provider
- Key drivers affecting Canada's energy system
- Climate change policies and carbon pricing -the effect on the energy system
- Key technologies (including carbon capture and sequestration) and other.

On March 11, 2010, the Senate once again authorized the committee to examine and report on the current state and future of Canada's energy sector (including alternative energy). The committee continued their study, hearing from expert witnesses, with the intention of releasing an interim report in the late spring of 2010.

The committee examined five bills during the 2009-2010 fiscal year:

- Bill S-212, An Act to amend the Canadian Environmental Protection Act, 1999. The committee had held two meetings on this bill by the time Parliament prorogued.
- Bill C-38, An Act to amend the Canada National Parks Act to enlarge Nahanni National Park Reserve of Canada. The committee reported the bill to the Senate, without amendment on June 18, 2009.
- Bill C-16, An Act to amend certain Acts that relate to the environment and to enact provisions respecting the enforcement of certain Acts that relate to the environment. The committee reported the bill to the Senate, without amendment and with observations, on June 11, 2009.
- Bill S-208, An Act to amend the Food and Drugs Act (clean drinking water). The committee reported the bill to the Senate, without amendment on June 18, 2009.

- Bill S-216, An Act to amend the Federal Sustainable Development Act and the Auditor General Act (involvement of Parliament). The committee reported the bill to the Senate, without amendment on April 2, 2009.

Standing Committee on Fisheries and Oceans

A. General Information

During the 2009-2010 fiscal year, the committee focused a great deal of attention on issues related to the role of the Canadian Coast Guard in Canada's North and Canada's northern fisheries. The Arctic is rapidly growing in strategic and economic importance and, as a result, Canada faces a number of actual and potential challenges to its sovereignty and sovereign rights in the region. The committee released three reports on this subject during this fiscal year. The committee also studied the Atlantic lobster fishery and the Convention of the Northwest Atlantic Fisheries Organization (NAFO). It also heard from witnesses on other fisheries and oceans-related matters, such as marine conservation, biodiversity, sealing, and recent developments in Europe.

Standing Committee on Foreign Affairs and International Trade

A. General Information

According to the Rules of the Senate, the Standing Committee on Foreign Affairs deals with matters relating to foreign relations generally, including: treaties and international agreements; external trade; foreign aid; defence and territorial and offshore matters. The committee dates from 1938 when the Senate agreed to establish a Committee on External Relations in order to contribute to the debate on the political instability in Europe. On October 30, 2006, the Senate adopted a resolution to change the name of the committee to that of Standing Senate Committee on Foreign Affairs and International Trade, a name which appropriately reflects the nature and the scope of the work done by the committee over the years, such as special studies on Canada-US Relations (1976-1982), the Free Trade Agreement (1988-1990), NAFTA (1991-1993), NATO (2000) Russia and Ukraine (2002), Africa (2007) and the 2008 Legislative Review of Export Development Canada (2009).

On March 4, 2008 and again on February 24, 2009, the committee received a mandate to study the rise of China, India and Russia in the global economy and the implications for Canadian policy. The main objective of this study is to better understand the high levels of economic growth of these countries in order to formulate concrete recommendations on Canada's policy response. The study is ongoing.

During the 2nd Session of the 40th Parliament, the committee considered the 2008 Legislative Review of Export Development Canada. The committee tabled its report on June 9, 2009 in which it made nine recommendations to the Government of Canada that it believes will improve EDC's operations and the future competitiveness of Canada's exporters.

In addition to these special studies, during this fiscal year the committee also dealt with Bill C-24, Canada-Peru Free Trade Agreement Implementation Act (2nd Session, Fortieth Parliament) and with Bill C-2, Canada-EFTA Free Trade Agreement Implementation Act (2nd Session, Fortieth Parliament).

Standing Committee on Human Rights

A. General Information

In March 2009, the committee sought and received a number of orders of reference from the Senate to continue previous studies including: 1) monitoring the implementation of the committee's report A Hard Bed to lie in: Matrimonial Real Property on Reserve, tabled in the Senate November 4, 2003; 2) monitoring issues relating to human rights and, inter alia, to review the machinery of government dealing with Canada's international and national human rights obligations; 3) to examine issues of discrimination in the hiring and promotion practices of the Federal Public Service, to study the extent to which targets to achieve employment equity are being met, and to examine labour market outcomes for minority groups in the private sector; and 4) to monitor the implementation of recommendations contained in the committee's report entitled Children: The Silenced Citizens: Effective Implementation of Canada's International Obligations with Respect to the Rights of Children, tabled in the Senate on April 25, 2007.

Further to the order of reference to study issues related to human rights and, inter alia, the machinery of government dealing with Canada's international and national human rights obligations, the committee focused their attention on two primary issues.

The first dealt with the committee's ongoing interest in the work of the United Nations Human Rights Council. In 2009-2010, the committee focused on the Council's Universal Periodic Review (UPR) process, and Canada's UPR before the Council. The committee tabled a brief report in relation to this review. Specifically, the report concluded that the processes and procedures undertaken in preparation for Canada's UPR lacked clarity and transparency. It recommended that the Government of Canada prepare and publicly announce a plan for the next UPR that could establish broad and meaningful engagement with relevant stakeholders, parliamentarians and the Canadian public.

The committee also began an examination of issues related to United Nations Security Council Resolution 1325 on women, peace and security, as well as its successor resolutions. The committee held four meetings on this subject, hearing from numerous witnesses.

In addition to its ongoing work, the committee undertook a new study into issues relating to the sexual exploitation of children in Canada. Eight meetings were held in relation to this study.

The committee considered one piece of legislation during the session. Bill S-223, An Act to amend the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act and to enact certain other measures in order to provide assistance and protection to victims of human trafficking, was studied by the committee and reported back to the Senate with amendments on December 8, 2009.

Finally, in approving the Budget Implementation Act, 2009, the Senate referred various elements of it to a number of committees for further post facto review. Specifically, the Human Rights Committee was asked to review Part 11, which contained the Public Sector Equitable Compensation Act. The committee held three meetings on this subject, reporting its recommendations to the Senate on June 11, 2009.

Standing Committee on National Finance

A. General Information

The committee was first created in May 1919 as the Committee on Finance, and in 1968 it became the Committee on National Finance. The committee's work is focused on matters relating to government spending. As stated in the Rules of the Senate (Rule 86(1)(i)), the committee has a mandate to examine matters relating to federal Estimates generally, including:

- i. the national accounts and the reports of the Auditor General; and
- ii. Government finance.

A large part of the committee's work is devoted to a review of the government's Estimates and issues arising out of that review.

Study of the Estimates and Legislation

As is customary, much of the committee's attention was focussed on the estimates, which outline the government's expenditure plans. The committee held several meetings to examine various aspects of the Government's planned expenditures for 2009-2010 and 2010-2011, including the Supplementary Estimates (B) 2008-2009, Supplementary Estimates (C) 2008-2009, Supplementary Estimates (A) 2009-2010, Supplementary Estimates (B) 2009-2010, and Supplementary Estimates (C) 2009-2010. During these examinations, a range of issues were brought to the attention of the Senate by the committee.

As part of its hearings on the Main Estimates 2009-2010, the committee focussed on a variety of issues, including the new Treasury Board Vote 35 – Budget Implementation Initiatives, the funding and the operations of Atomic Energy of Canada limited, the spending of National Defence, the operations of the Royal Canadian Mint and the Privy Council Office. In addition, two measures of the Extraordinary Financing Framework -- the Insured Mortgage Purchase Program and the Canadian Secured Credit Facility -- were discussed on several occasions during their hearings on the Main Estimates. As is customary, the committee heard from the Public Service Commission of Canada.

The committee undertook a preliminary examination of the Main Estimates 2010-2011 in March of 2010, considering a variety of issues. A more thorough examination of these Estimates would follow in the 2010-2011 fiscal year.

Six bills were also reported by the committee.

- Bill C-10, An Act to implement certain provisions of the budget tabled in Parliament on January 27, 2009 and related fiscal measures – reported without amendment
- Bill C-18, An Act to amend the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Superannuation Act, to validate certain calculations and to amend other Acts – reported without amendment, with observations
- Bill C-50, An Act to amend the Employment Insurance Act and to increase benefits – reported without amendment
- Bill C-51, An Act to implement certain provisions of the budget tabled in Parliament on January 27, 2009 and to implement other measures – reported with amendments
- Bill C-62, An Act to amend the Excise Tax Act – reported without amendment, with observations
- Bill C-56, An Act to amend the Employment Insurance Act and to make consequential amendments to other Acts – reported without amendment, with observations

The study of bills C-50 and C-56 were both preceded by studies of the subject-matter of those bills. In both cases the committee did not report separately on the pre-study. Furthermore, the amendments reported by the committee in relation to Bill C-51 were subsequently ruled out of order by the Speaker of the Senate, and evacuated from the report. Finally, the adoption of Bill C-10 was followed by an extended study of a number of elements of the legislation, which the committee reported on in its sixth report, tabled on June 11, 2009.

In addition to the bills reported on, the committee also considered Bill S-227, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act and the Excise Tax Act (tax relief for Nunavik). The committee held two meetings in relation to this bill, but had not completed its study at the time of the prorogation of the 2nd session of the 40th Parliament.

Standing Committee on National Security and Defence

A. General Information

The Standing Senate Committee on National Security and Defence was created in early 2001.

After conducting an introductory survey of the major security and defence issues facing Canada, the committee concluded that there was an urgent need for a national security policy and this became the basis for subsequent orders of reference. Over time, the committee recognized four broad areas of study: the capabilities of the departments of National Defence and Public Safety Canada, the working relationships between various agencies involved in intelligence-gathering and analysis, the mechanisms to review the agencies involved in intelligence-gathering, and the security of borders and critical infrastructure.

During the past fiscal year, the committee considered a draft report related to its mandate. The draft report was not adopted prior to prorogation.

The committee also undertook seven fact-finding missions related to its mandate. In July 2009, the committee travelled to the Maritimes to visit CFB Halifax, CFB Greenwood and CFB Gagetown, as well as visiting the headquarters for Veterans Affairs Canada in Charlottetown, PEI. Later in July, smaller groups of committee members visited the land, sea and airport border crossings in Eastern Canada, Quebec and Ontario. In September 2009, additional committee members visited the land, sea and airport border crossings in Alberta and British Columbia. In November 2009, the committee visited military bases in Ontario, travelling to CFB Petawawa, CFB Trenton, CFB Borden, as well visiting Royal Military College in Kingston, Ontario.

Standing Committee on Official Languages

A. General Information

During the 2009-2010 fiscal year, the committee continued consideration of Francophone culture in Canada, the use of official languages at the 2010 Olympic and Paralympic Winter Games, and the implementation of Part VII of the Official Languages Act. It heard testimony from representatives of eleven federal departments and agencies, organizations representing Francophone and Anglophone communities, the Commissioner of Official Languages, and a former Supreme Court Justice. The committee wanted to learn more about the progress achieved, and recent initiatives to support the development of official language minority communities and the promotion of linguistic duality. During this fiscal year, the committee was also interested in other issues, such as minority language health services, implementation of the Roadmap for Canada's Linguistic Duality by targeted departments and agencies, and the Public Service Commission's management of second-language evaluation tests.

Standing Committee on Rules, Procedures and the Rights of Parliament

A. General Information

In 1968, a Standing Committee on Standing Rules and Orders was established following a report by the Special Committee on the Rules of the Senate, which had been appointed to examine the Rules and to recommend improvements. This committee was replaced in June 1991 by the Committee on Privileges, Standing Rules and Orders, which assumed the function of examining the orders, customs and privileges of the Senate, a function previously performed by the Committee on Privileges which was a committee of all the senators present during the session. In September of 2001, the committee adopted its current name to better reflect its mandate and responsibilities.

In 2009-2010, the Standing Committee on Rules, Procedures and the Rights of Parliament submitted six substantive reports. Three reports of the committee recommended amendments to the Rules of the Senate on the following subjects: reinstatement of bills, questions of privilege, and conflict of interest for Senators. The committee also studied the rules and practices pertaining to the printing of the Rules of the Senate and the replacement of members on committees. In addition, the committee reported on a question of privilege that had been referred to it by the Senate.

During the Second Session of the Fortieth Parliament, the committee began a study on the wireless sector. Specifically, the committee's order of reference was to:

Study emerging issues related to its communications mandate and to report on the wireless sector, including issues such as access to high-speed Internet, the supply of bandwidth, the nation-building role of wireless, the pace of the adoption of innovations, the financial aspects associated with possible changes to the sector, and Canada's development of the sector in comparison to the performance in other countries.

Although the order of reference was in itself, quite broad, the committee focussed on six key areas:

In addition to hearing witnesses in Ottawa, the committee completed fact finding missions to the United Kingdom, France, Estonia and Belgium (both for the European Commission and the domestic Belgian market) to speak with those countries' experts in telecommunications.

In addition to its special study, the committee was referred several pieces of legislation including Bill C-9, An Act to amend the Transportation of Dangerous Goods Act, 1992 (reported with one amendment on May 7, 2009), Bill C-3, An Act to amend the Arctic Waters Pollution Prevention Act (reported without amendment on May 28, 2009), and Bill C-7, An Act to amend the Marine Liability Act and the Federal Courts Act and to make consequential amendments to other Acts (reported without amendment but with observations on June 18, 2009).

Finally, the committee considered a user fee amendment proposal from the Department of Public Works and Government Services concerning services relating to the Esquimalt Graving Dock, dated May 20, 2009, pursuant to the User Fees Act, S.C. 2004, c. 6, sbs. 4(2) (reported that it be approved on June 4, 2009).

Standing Joint Committee for the Scrutiny of Regulations

A. General Information

The joint committee's mandate is defined by the Statutory Instruments Act, which authorizes it to review and scrutinize certain statutory instruments made after January 1, 1972. In addition to its statutory order of reference, the Senate and the House of Commons have, since 1980, renewed an order of reference at the beginning of each session authorizing the joint committee to study the means by which Parliament can better oversee and control the government regulatory process. Taken together, the statutory and sessional references of the committee provide it with a broad jurisdiction to enquire into and report on most aspects of the federal regulatory process.

In the fiscal year from April 1, 2009 to March 31, 2010, 14 meetings were held. While the committee rarely calls witnesses, it felt it necessary to do so this year. Michael Presley, Executive Director, Regulatory Affairs Sector of the Treasury Board of Canada Secretariat, testified before the committee in May 2009.
